

As I understand it, the National Association of Broadcasters is feeling threatened by the competition Satillite Radio provides with thier traffic and weather reports. Why should the NAB have a monopoly on traffic and weather for Pete's sake!?! Perhaps they should take a look at thier offering, eliminate some of the baggage that comes with standard radio and (gasp) compete effectively or go the way of the buggy whip! Please let the FCC know that competition is a good thing and send the NAB back to thier transmitters to rethink what they do. I like my satillite radio!
